

CHICAGO CITATION STYLE

Historians and social scientists generally use “Chicago-Style” footnotes for citation. Footnotes provide important bibliographic information for facts, paraphrases, and quotations presented in the paper.

Inserting a Footnote in Microsoft Word

Place the cursor where you would like to insert a footnote. In the references tab, click “Insert Footnote.” Word will automatically place a footnote at the bottom of the page where you can enter the necessary citation.

Where should a footnote be placed? Insert a footnote after the punctuation mark (period, comma, question mark, or exclamatory point) and the quotation mark.

Ex. Belskaia hoped her letter would “become a vivid illustration of the cruel times of Stalinist excesses.”<sup>2</sup>

The first footnote for a source should contain full bibliographic information: publication information for the work plus the page number (examples a, below). Subsequent footnotes should follow an abbreviated style (examples b). If you use the same source cited in the previous note, use the Latin abbreviation “Ibid.” in place of the author and title (examples c).
